REVIEW OF INORGANIC CHEMISTRY MCQ QUESTIONS WITH ANSWERS

- This book moves me in ways I find hard to describe. I'm from a farming family in the San Joaquin Valley in California. My father still grows grapes not terribly far from Mr. Masumoto's farm. When you grow up near the earth and smell, hear, see and touch its produce nearly every day, especially when the fruit is ripe, you can't help but be awed by nature's (and God's) miracles. Living now in a city I long for my children and my friends to understand how deeply tied we really are to the earth and what it produces for us, and how vital it is for us all to take care of our fragile earth. Organic farming requires all of us, farmers and consumers, to think a bit differently about how to grow and shop for our food. Mr. Masumoto brilliantly captured the ordinary, everyday life of a farmer. This book will be going to everyone I know for Christmas this year.

- Frankly, this one is a slight disappointment. I bought this one thinking it would be as good as Looking Good in Print by Roger Parker, but I found it to be shallow and the author to wander off track into non-design related areas.
