REVIEW OF POWER PLANT ENGINEERING QUESTION BANK FOR MECHANICAL

- This was the first book I read by Earl Emerson. As a Portland resident and a Tacoma native I was able to identify with Emerson as he weaves his plot from Seattle to Portland. Thomas Black is the perfect character for this and the other books in the series. An ex-cop turned private investigator, Black has the feel of a Northwest detective. Living in the U Dub district in Seattle, Black is depicted as a down to earth guy trying to earn a living as a private detective. Emerson draws from his own knowledge of the Northwest as a Seattle firefighter and a Tacoma native in unraveling the plot. Many of the characters he creates are unique and present a great composite of Northwest life styles. A great read and terrific climax.
- I have never travelled to Anguilla. Now that I have read Melinda and Robert's book about their adventure of starting up Blanchard's Restaurant there, I feel at home there already! I enjoyed the people we met personally who helped them in their venture. It is always wonderful to "meet" people who give up all of their world's possessions to start over again to make a dream come true. This book gives the reader the courage to do just that. As you read, you feel the highs and lows of their attempts to do just that: establish a new family home and business in a beautiful part of the world: The Caribbean. They chose the tiny Island of Anguilla and in a very short time became family to all who lived there. You'll laugh a lot at the antics of their "highly qualified staff". I especially loved the inclusion of recipes they conjured up to suit the natural foods that they found on the Island. When you read this book, I think you, too, will want to travel there and taste the flavour of life overlooking the turquoise bays. What is your dream? Will you have the courage to make it come true? Read this book. You will love it!
