REVIEW OF ANGKET MINAT BACA SISWA

- If you are a homeowner or thinking of becoming a homeowner, you simply must read this book. The concepts introduced in this book go against what we've all been traditionally taught about repaying our mortgages. It can also help you pay your mortgage off in record time. It's a quick and easy read and can potentially save you thousands of dollars in interest and give you years of mortgage free living.

- Sometimes I think there is no hope for America! All this back and forth over a single, simple math concept is annoying because it speaks to the fact that too many of us are too lazy to figure things out for ourselves. First, you need to know how a mortgage is structured; specifically, you need to understand that when you make a mortgage payment, you first pay interest on the outstanding balance and whatever amount is left over is applied against the principle. What that means in English is that the sooner it is in the term of your mortgage, the more interest you pay. Any amount of principle you pay in advance will lower the total amount of interest you will pay over the life of the loan and shorten the term of the loan, as well. The amount to prepay being bandied about here is $10,000 and if you were to pay that amount in year one of your mortgage (30yr/6%), you would avoid appx $40,000 in interest charges and shorten the term of your loan by almost seven years! Do the math, knuckleheads! I cannot in good faith, however, recommend the system detailed in this book for most people simply because the level of self-discipline, bookkeeping, and, yes, math required by it is too high for most of us. And, for most of us, taking on additional debt in the form of a HELOC is too risky and unnecessary, besides, to accomplish the goal of paying off your mortgage sooner rather than later. If you want to have mortgage debt for as little time as possible, simply buy only as much house as you can afford using a 15 year mortgage. However, that must be too simple for most people. And people usually fail to follow that advice because they want to buy more house than they can actually afford; in other words, they lack the self-discipline to learn or apply basic personal financial management techniques and strategies much less the skills that will be required to pull off the strategy in this book!
