REVIEW OF PAPERS ON DIABETES

- The first Julie Garwood book I read was Ransom. I enjoyed it because I was not looking for a typical love story, but rather a book which actually had a plot besides two characters continually feuding until they finally realize they love each other, then live happily ever after. I definitely enjoyed Ransom, because the plot of the book kept me involved, and the affection the characters felt for each other was understandable and believable. Also, it was a side note that the characters fall in love--their romance did not dominate the book, an aspect I particularly liked. This was a very good book! Out of all the Julie Garwood books I've now read, this one remains my favorite. It's not a typical romance novel--a very enjoyable read!

- I really liked this one! I read it, loved it, then proceeded to re-read The Secret (the first introduction of Brodick and Ramsey) as well as my entire Garwood collection (with the exception of the Roses series - yuck!). A minor downfall in the beginning -- there is maybe a little too much information to grasp. But alas, things pick up as Brodick and Gillian meet. I enjoyed Brodick's character as I did in The Secret. I had a constant silly grin on my face throughout the majority of the book and much to my own embarrassment, laughed out loud quite a few times. I did find Gillian a bit questionable, but could deal with that. She was fearless and courageous one minute and accident prone the next? Whatever. I enjoyed the incessant dialogue and witty bantering of these characters much more than reading paragraph upon paragraph of blah, blah, blah. There were things I didn't understand such as the loose end of Gillian's nightmares and a few other things. I agree that Ramsey and Brigid deserved their own novel and would have preferred the hint of a relationship forming in Ransom only to have it blossom into their own special story. All things considered, I highly enjoyed this book and did NOT want it to end, therefore I had to read it two more times! Thank you Ms. Garwood!
