REVIEW OF NELSON MATH FOCUS 4 STUDENT WORKBOOK

- I enjoyed reading this book very much even though I found some of the arguments a bit too simplistic to stand against a hostile opponent who has thought some of these issues through..The biggest weakness is the author's use of the Moral Argument without laying it out effectively. A few sentences destroying a straw man of relativism does not prove theistic absolutism nor does the existence of moral outrage prove that there are objective moral principles. The book does however demonstrate an approach for the thinking Christian but is far more effective in dealing with the lunatic fringe of Christianity who advocate "Creation Science", violence, racism etc. in the name of their God than it is with dealing with a determined critic of Christianity. The open minded skeptic will find much of interest in this book.

- "The Greatest Generation" Tom Brokaw The 8th Air Force is well represented in Tom Brokaw's easy reading best seller, "The Greatest Generation" which, ahem, refers to us! James Dowling, a bombardier-navigator with the 445th Air Wing is written up in a chapter. He was on his 11th mission into Germany near the city of Kassel when things began to go wrong in a big way. His B24 plus 29 others were knocked from the sky. He spent the rest of the war in Stalag Luft One near Barth, Germany. Lloyd Kilmer was a Liberator pilot assigned to the 448th Bomb Group, 712 Squadron, 2nd Air Division. He crash landed near Beenister, Holland on his 16th mission and spent the next ten months as a POW under atrocious conditions. His story is here also. Read "The Greatest Generation". It's been out quite a while so there shouldn't be a long waiting list at the library. If I had my way it would be required reading in every High School. (JB)
