REVIEW OF SUZUKI RM65 MANUAL DOWNLOAD

- As a canadian I was looking for a book that would prep me for the big exam. This book did just that. There were a few questions that didn't pertain to our canadian exam but it was definitely worth the money.

- I live in Silicon Valley and love everything about this place. The story of the two STEVES is local legend and The Woz and Jobs are our heroic icons, people our kids aspire to emulate. I became an APPLE FREAK in 1984 when I purchased my first Macintosh to lay-out my Silicon Valley Union newspaper. That little machine (with the 10-inch screen) saved me $1500 monthly in lay-out fees (with the help of PageMaker) ... and that ain't "chicken feed." Thanks, Apple! That's a long time ago and since then I've gone through the Liisa, the Classic, the Quadra, and am currently using an iMac. I've written eight books with the help of Mac, two in print, one due out in November, 2005. Thanks, Steves! But as great as I think the computers are, the men behind them are even greater. I don't know Jobs, but I've met The Woz on several occasions and he is not only the brains behind Apple, he's a "genuinely good, caring man." Ask anyone in the Valley about him. As one little example, he unselfishly allowed me to use him as a character in my kids book, THE TOONIES INVADE SILICON VALLEY, and it's a riot to read about him romping around with cartoon characters and real kids trying to save the world from the "bad" Toonies. That's just one example of his generosity; he has contributed to many charitable and educational institutions in Silicon Valley and beyond. Thanks, Woz! One other thing I admire about Steve Wozniak is that he has always loved to tell jokes (and, YES, to pull practical jokes on people too). I've been trying to locate a joke book he wrote years ago. Go, Woz! To learn about this remarkable man, from age 11 when he built his first computer, read this book. It's an interesting, informative reading pleasure.
