In Don't Just Applaud, Send Money! noted arts management consultant Alvin H. Reiss details marketing and fund-raising strategies of enormous value to all arts organizations. Drawing on sources throughout the arts community (including orchestras, opera, dance and theatre companies, galleries, museums, arts councils, performing arts centers, and a zoo), Reiss has collected more than 100 new ideas proven successful in actual practice. Each case is clearly presented in a unique CPR format (Challenge, Plan, Result), and many are illustrated with a reproduction of the flyer, brochure, poster or letter used in the fund-raising or marketing campaign. The result is a handbook of concepts which can be adapted for immediate use...and which may inspire hundreds of other effective ideas.

Led by twenty-five-year-old Grace Banker, thirty-two telephone operators — affectionately called "Hello Girls" back in the US — became the first female combatants in World War I. Follow Grace Banker's journey from her busy life as a telephone switchboard trainer in New York to her pioneering role as the Chief Operator of the 1st Unit of World War I telephone operators in the battlefields of France. With expert skill, steady nerves, and steadfast loyalty, the Signal Corps operators transferred orders from commanders to battlefields and communicated top-secret messages between American and French headquarters. After faithfully serving her country —undaunted by freezing weather and fires; long hours and little sleep, and nearby shellings and far off explosions — Grace was the first and only woman operator in the Signal Corps to be awarded the Army's Distinguished Service Medal.

Originally published in 1962, The Silence on the Shore is considered by many critics to be Hugh Garners best, most ambitious novel. Truly, in the person of Grace Hill, the landlady of the Toronto rooming house where most of the books events take place, Garner has created a fictional character never to be forgotten. Grace is a middle-aged snoop and an overweight nudist whose sexual release comes from watching wrestling matches at a hockey arena that is a thinly disguised Maple Leaf Gardens. Around Grace orbit her various boarders: alcoholic Gordon Lightfoot; Walter Fowler, an aspiring writer whose marriage has just broken up; Aline Garfield, a fundamentalist Christian grappling with various urges and torments; a Polish refugee woman; and a colourful cast of others whose lives intersect in drama that arises from arbitrary or coincidental encounters. According to scholar John Moss, the book is the best realistic novel of Canadian city life yet to be written.

Voyageur Classics is a series of special versions of Canadian classics, with added material and new introductions. In this bundle we find five classic works of twentieth century fiction, drama and poetry, a period when Canada's literary identity was shaped. Originally published in 1962, The Silence on the Shore is considered by many critics to be renowned Hugh Garner's best, most ambitious novel. Originally published in 1967, Combat Journal for Place d'Armes was initially met with shock and anger by most reviewers but has become a literary touchstone. The Donnellys tells the tale of a secret society and a massacre that shocked the Canadian public, a story overlooked by the artistic community until Reaney's 1975 play elevated the events to the level of legend. In This Poem I Am presents the best of poet Robin Skelton's adventurous poetry. And Exploration Literature is a groundbreaking collection of early writing inspired by the opening of a continent, an entry point into the beginnings of a literate response to the awe and wonder inspired by an unfolding geography. On the eve of her wedding to a wealthy man who will raise Maris Mayberry from the obscurity of humble roots, Tilford Thorpe reveals his true nature. Maris's parents have scrimped and saved to provide their precious daughter the wedding of her dreams; but then Maris's mother becomes very ill. Maris turns to Tilford for comfort and support in postponing the wedding, but Maris is shocked when Tilford pronounces that the wedding must go on no matter what. Lane Maitland has returned to the Mayberry's neighborhood to restore the house next door. He can't help but be drawn to the family in their time of need. And supporting Maris as she stands up to Tilford's selfish demands comes naturally to an honorable man like Lane. But can he help Maris recognize true love, or is he too late?

Dr. Rodney Wead has penned his story in a book, Above and Beyond: How a Tall, Lanky Kid from the Omaha Housing projects spent a lifetime helping others top their dreams. He shares insight into how he used his high school and college athletic abilities and lessons to balance how he achieved countless civil rights victories while achieving economic improvements and describes his eclectic experiences that range from rising from childhood poverty with his best friend, the late Major League Baseball Hall of Famer, St. Louis Cardinal Ace Pitcher Bob Gibson, to founding a credit union, the nation's first black-owned and operated AM/FM radio station and a community bank. Dr. Wead takes you on a journey that tells of his greatest friendships - with two line brothers and several notables who have transitioned to the Golden Shores - hometown mentee and NFL Hall of Famer, Chicago Bears' great Gayle Sayers, and Historian and Journalist Dr. Lerone Bennett. He proudly details initiation into Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc., Alpha Eta Chapter at Dana College. Dr. Wead has received numerous accolades. A street has been named for him in Omaha, nearby the former location of the Community Bank of Nebraska, a Nebraska chartered institution that he led the organization of to benefit the economic uplifting of the Black community. As Dr. Wead describes in his book how financial investor Warren Buffett encouraged him to pursue the bank founding because "he was fully supportive of the Black community raising its own capital and therefore, creating financial empowerment." The founding of KOWH AM/FM radio station earned the Omaha community the first in the nation to have a black-owned and operated AM and FM bands. Radio One and TV One Founder Cathy Hughes, referred as his little sister, helped Dr. Wead in establishing the station by recruiting and training its first disc jockeys. Hughes' lived nearby in the same housing projects. That project, Logan Fontenelle, was the site of triumphant and tragedies. The senseless death of a young teenage girl, shot in the back of the head by an Omaha police officer, is among the most horrific experiences impacting his life including the irrational and near life-ending beatings by then U.S. Presidential candidate and Alabama Gov. George Wallace's private security team. Dr. Wead had many more encounters with the police as a routine demonstrator for human rights that included passage of the National Voting Rights Act of 1965.

REVIEW OF GRACE HILL ANSWERS

- Dr. Scott Hahn's new book, Scripture Matters, reflects not only a profound theology of God's Word, but also analyzes and critiques some of the more prevalent errors which have crept into discussions of the interpretations and proper use of Sacred Scripture in the life of the Church and the lives of individuals. I heartily recommend this work for students and all those who wish to enhance the effective role of Holy Scripture in their lives.

- I greatly enjoyed this book. The half-Caucasian, half-aborigine Detective Inspector Napoleon Bonaparte (Bony to his friends) becomes involved in this case hoping he's found the perfect murder. A man named Marks visits Windee Station then vanishes. The local police assume he was lost in the bush but Bony has reason to think differently. This mystery is populated with a host of interesting outback characters, aborigines, blackmailers, secondary mysteries, and an awe-inspiring fire. The vision of 1930's Australia is exotic to us in this day and age, yet presented with complete understanding. It is worth noting that Bony and his contemporaries are well aware of his biracial status and some of the language used may bother some. The original copyright of this story is over 60 years ago though, and Mr. Upfield's heart and intentions are in the right place.
