REVIEW OF AGRICULTURAL MCQ IN EXAM WITH ANSWER

- Out of the two books that Mrs. Lowry wrote, that I read, I like The Giver the best. I thought Number The Stars was kind of boring. I liked how Jonas was my age, in The Giver, so I could relate to him a bit. And, even though Gabe wasn't Jonas' brother, I could relate to that, too. So, I could really get into the book, because of that. I didn't like the ending of The Giver, though. I don't think many people liked the ending either. So, I have a request, could you make another book, of the same topic, but with a better ending? I also didn't like the whole release thing. Especially with the twins, how they would kill the one who weighed the least. Overall I would say this was a great book, and just forget about my rating I put! I really got in to it, even though it was an assignment for my English class, well, now that I think about it, so is this letter!

- The Giver is a genuine piece of literary art influential to people of all ages and genders that I can see more in every time I read. In The Giver, a boy named Jonas is selected to receive memories in a community without any. Jonas experiences pain and hardships like we do today, but with a much bigger picture. I would recommend The Giver to anyone with a reasonable sized vocabulary and knows how to read. A child younger than fourth grade may not understand some concepts in the plot of The Giver, but any other age level no matter how old should understand and connect to the book's meaning. Lois Lowry did such an exceptional job writing The Giver, that even if the reader does not like science fiction, this book would be an exception. The Giver is almost so fictional, that the story has a quality of being real life. The Giver gives messages to its readers through significant characters, a constant reminder of the importance of relationships, and the importance of love in our lives. The Giver is my favorite book so far in my life. I have read hundreds of books by all types of authors, and various genres of books, but The Giver filled my heart and mind with positive thoughts and feelings. I can always count on The Giver to put a smile on my face or bring tears to my eyes. I would rate The Giver as a five-star novel, and worth every star plus more for the superb quality of the material within the cover of the book.
