"The Humanities through the Arts, tenth edition, explores the humanities with an emphasis on the arts. Examining the relationship of the humanities to values, objects, and events important to people is central to this book. We make a distinction between artists and other humanists: Artists reveal values, while other humanists examine or reflect on values. We study how values are revealed in the arts while keeping in mind a basic question: "What is art?" Judging by the existence of ancient artifacts, we see that artistic expression is one of the most fundamental human activities. It binds us together as a people by revealing the most important values of our culture"--

A History of Art in Africa covers all parts of the continent, including Egypt, from prehistory to the present day and includes the art of the African Diaspora. Many aspects of visual culture are given detailed consideration, including sculpture, architecture, and such quintessentially African forms as masquerades, festivals, and personal adornment. The arts of daily life, of royal ceremony, and of state cosmology receive compelling discussions. Throughout, the authors emphasize the cultural contexts in which art is produced and imbued with meanings." "Among the ancient works illustrated are masterpieces in brass, gold, ivory, stone and terracotta. Religious arts serving Islamic and Christian communities are presented, as are fascinating hybrid arts that periodically arose from African interactions with Europe, Asia and the Americas. Twentieth-century arts are explored as part of the vibrancy of modern Africa and as ingenious responses to historical change. "Twenty-first-century African artists, and artists of the African Diaspora, are presented in the context of changing global economies and new theoretical positions." "This expanded and revised second edition provides a new chapter on African artists working abroad, and five new short essays on cross-cultural topics such as tourist arts, dating methods, and the illicit trade in archaeological artifacts. The illustrations - featuring a vast and rich array of images of artworks, archival and contemporary field photographs, explanatory drawings and plans, and individual objects displayed in museums and in use - have likewise been greatly extended, with many more pictures now shown in color."--BOOK JACKET.

REVIEW OF ISBN 9781285858166 EXPLORING ART A GLOBAL THEMATIC

• Welcome to the ideal world: a world without conflict, poverty, unemployment, injustice or inequality.Welcome to the annual Ceremony of Twelves. Each 12 year-old receives a life assignment by the elders. Jonas is selected to be the Receiver of Memory, this assignment was last given 10 years ago, and the youngster failed miserably.Will Jonas fail asd this awesome task? He meets The Giver, an elderly man who gives Jonas his memories of the past. Jonas learns about snow and sunshine, he learns about color and most importantly he learns about love.Which way of life is better? The old life has pain, yet a life without pain holds no joy.I'm never shocked at the reviews of this book...it is easy to see age of the reviewers, especially when they write..." what a dumb book, who could imagine a world without color." I just hope at some point these young folks will return to and read this book...it's magical and one that will last forever.

• There is a lot of excitement about this book. I read it before my daughter, and man was I glad I did. This is an interesting, read, but for kids over 14. I believe the subject of murdering babies is not appropriate, not matter what, for pre-teens. The book is too dark for young kids. There are many parts of the story that are wonderful and thought provoking, but it just goes too far for kids. Call me a prude, but what my kids read IS important -- I urge you, as a parent to read it first to see if you agree.
