• I truly appreciate the experience I shared in reading this book. I felt engaged to it from the first down to the last chapter. Mr. Hill has a way with words. I feel there were some underline sexist approaches through out the book, but still never the less a great book. I saw that Love can and will be blinding to those who don't want to open their eyes to reality. I am glad Maurice mad the decision he mad, but upset with Omenita. I believed in her potential in growing from her past, and desired her to think differently of her surroundings. A key point that was made early on in the novel that we all should take heed to, was never let who you came from nor what people think of you control your destiny. As an individual you decide what you will endure so choose what is meant for you instead of another's burdens. I am a proud fan of Mr. Hill's novels and anticipating upcoming readings.
