This book covers three principal subject areas: smart cities, general contractors and business models. The smart city concept is currently on the rise and cities around the world appear to be in a race to become smart, fast. Converting big cities into smart cities is a move that almost all cities around the globe have made, or will undoubtedly make in the near future, to be able to cope with the various repercussions of urbanization. Smartness is a vague term that could relate to anything and everything, such as infrastructure, people or governance. In this book, we focus our attention on smart buildings - large ones, in particular - and attempt to identify the key problems that France-based construction companies face today, in order to suggest plausible solutions. Our research findings show that no single business model can fit all smart cities worldwide. Using the general contractor business model for smart cities, this book proposes an original solution to managing smart city projects, bringing together architecture, construction and strategy.

REVIEW OF BUILDING CONSTRUCTION 1 SAMPLE QUESTION PAPER

- One of the worst books I have ever tried to read. The organization of the book is incoherent. It seems to have been dashed off with minimal time and effort. Pages and pages of code listings that aren't helpful. It is never clear how the sample code relates to anything. It appears to have been a project for an independent studies class, and fiddled with to turn it into a book. Good luck trying to get the sample code to compile. Stupid quotations throughout that have nothing to do with anything, except to convey the author seems to consider himself 'with-it'. ??? This is how the book opens ... take a hint ... "However Big You Think You Are" "He's the all-American bullet-headed Saxon mother's son" (Lennon/McCartney "Don't waste your time or money.

- This is one of those books that come back to you. The thoughts of the readers, the highlighted moments, their downfalls and upheavals. I just want to share with you the main point that Potok is trying to make in the book. "Human beings do not live forever. We live less than the time it takes to blink an eye, if we measure our lives against eternity. So it may be asked what value is there to a human life. There is so much pain in the world. What does it mean to have to suffer SO MUCH...if our lives are nothing more than the blink of an eye?I learned a long time ago that the blink of an eye itself is nothing. But the eye that blinks, THAT is something. A span of life is nothing. But the man who lives that span, HE is something. He can fill that tiny span with meaning, so it's quality is immeasurable though the quantity may be insignificant. Do you understand what I am saying? A man must fill his life with meaning, meaning is not automatically given to life. It is hard work to fill one's life with meaning. THAT I do not think you understand yet.A LIFE FILLED WITH MEANING IS WORTHY OF REST. I want to be worthy of rest when I am no longer here."THAT is what The Chosen is about.
