REVIEW OF APTITUDE QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS IFBI EXAM

- Sewell Crockett is one of the most powerful men in Washington, and of of the most feared. As Director of the Domestic Security Agency he has devoted his life to ferreting out and removing from the public scene criminals, subversives, and certain political enemies. In addition to his official duties, he has for a quarter of a century diligently gathered, collated, and updated information about the most private lives of public people:

Congressman, Generals, Cabinet Members, Presidents. He is unassailable, unremovable, omnipotent...until the night he keels over, leaving his secret files unguarded for a few fateful minutes. Fortunately Tobin, his right hand man is there to gather them up. But he knows, as soon as he takes the files in hand, that he is a marked man. There are at least three clandestine "agencies" gunning for him...because in Washington whoever controls those files is going to be king of the hill.

- I have just been rereading the series and have had a strange suspicion...I do not believe this series is being written by the same person. First of all, the every book is written with a slightly different style. Second, there are many inconsistencies in the series for example some of Min's viewings from the first book never show up later, maybe they are still yet to come? or were forgotten or not used by successive authors. Also starting with this book, book 5, many inconsistencies begin to show up, for example, at the end of book 4 the Avendesora tree in Rhuidean has only one limb broken, but in the beginning of book 5 it is burnt to a crisp...Finally, while there are many appearances of "Robert Jordan" at various events, the appearance of having just one author would not be hard to do, and "Robert Jordan" is actually the main character in a book entitled "For Whom the Bell Tolls" by Hemingway!
