REVIEW OF DEMAG CRANES AND COMPONENTS

- As a stone cold adult beginner, I thought why not go for the book that sounded as if it was for a stone cold beginner - "Piano For Dummies"? Well, I certainly am a 'dummy' - shelling out over $20 for this discouraging pap is the dumbest thing I've done in years. I wrestled with it for quite a few weeks - trying to eke out hard information between the stupid humour and piano facts that I never asked for in the first place, dumb drawings and unhelpful layout. Then I called for a professional, feeling really discouraged. This book doesn't really even let you know at what point you might sit behind a piano and actually try playing? It's that bad. So I booked myself in with a professional piano teacher who within minutes made me realise it was the book and not me. I showed her the book which she referred to as "dreadful and patronising". She won't even allow me to have it back! She then handed me these two which are ideal for the older learner:- Piano For Adults (Bastien) ISBN 0-8497-7300-8- Accelerated Piano Adventures (Faber) ISBN 1-56939-132-7 The former is my slight preference but both are leagues ahead of "Piano For Dummies". Sorry if that personally offends anyone, author included, but it is truly awful. I've now progressed more in a week than I did in two months with the Dummies book. Avoid.

- Whether you are an avid summer lake dweller or simply sitting in your office wishing you were at the lake, this book will help make your dreaming come to life!. The book is prepared with care by two authors who write from the heart. It is a delightful fancy created from actual postcards written at a time when writing was an art. So let yourself take a trip to Lake Geneva. And bring a friend!
