REVIEW OF THE RULES OF THE GAME BY COLLINA PIERLUIGI

- A young man searches for an effective manager because he wants to work for one and become one. When he discovers a nearby manager, the young man visits him. When the young man asks the manager what type of manager he is, the manager alleges that he is a One Minute Manager. The young man wants to learn more, so the manager arranges for him to talk to three of his people. The first person that the young man talks to is Mr. Trenell. Mr. Trenell explains to the young man the first secret of One Minute Management: One Minute Goal Setting.

One Minute Goal Setting requires one to set goals that would take a minute to read, and then see if the individual's behavior matches his/her goals. The second person that the young man talks to was Mr. Levy. Mr. Levy explains to the young man the second secret of One Minute Management: One Minute Praisings. One Minute Praisings requires one to tell people in person specifically what they are doing right, encourage them to do more of the same, and leave a positive feeling about their progress. The third person that the young man talks to is Ms. Brown. Ms. Brown explains to the young man the third secret of One Minute Management: One Minute Reprimand. One Minute Reprimand requires one to tell people specifically what they are doing wrong, but attacking the behavior of the individual, not the individual himself/herself. Afterward, remind the individual that they are a good person. As you can see, the book merely tells you that an effective manager will set goals, and give praising and reprimands--and nothing more. If you like to read novels, this doesn't cut it neither. It qualifies more as a short story. You can read it in about half hour, so don't waste your money on this book. You can just walk over to your local bookstore and sit down for 30 minutes, and leave having read a semi-interesting short story.

- Your "Come and See" series is a winner. Its language is simple, clear, concise, not intimidating. Whether you are discovering the Bible for the first time or renewing an old relationship, this particular series is an indispensable guide for the Catholic who wishes to know more about Scripture. In discussing the materials with some of the participants, I can openly say, this is truly a grace-filled read for anyone that would use it. In all, our facilitators and participants are very pleased with the

"Come and See" program and are looking forward to the release of next year's text. I would recommend it without reservation to anyone considering a Scripture Study on the parish level, small group, or for private personal growth.
