In recent years, there has been a sharp rise in acts of violence in the courts. These acts range from minor disturbances and physical assaults to murder and mass destruction. The potential exists for violence to occur in any court system regardless of location. Unfortunately, many courts at all levels of the judicial system have been slow or even reluctant to implement adequate security measures. This book is designed to prove the folly in such denial. It provides hard statistics and observations that highlight this unique visceral security environment. The text is specifically designed to help those charged with developing and implementing security measures to reevaluate current methods for safeguarding the judicial process. Presented in four sections, the first discusses perpetrators planning an attack and reviews types of perpetrators, target selection, tactics, operations styles, the mechanics of violent attacks, and thwarting attacks. Section two discusses in much detail a multitude of integrated security systems now available for court facilities. The third section presents effective response mechanics for courthouse violence, and the final section reviews tactical considerations for training, containment, and responding to explosive devices. The text serves as a substantial resource in providing the most current state-of-the-art information on security operations and technologies in a very clear but in-depth format. The ultimate goal of this book is to emphasize that court security in today's world must be constantly reexamined, revamped, and upgraded to protect human and physical assets. This unique and comprehensive text will be invaluable to courthouse administrators, security professionals, law enforcement personnel, judges, lawyers, and college-level students of security.

REVIEW OF REQUIREMENTS FOR CCTV INSTALLATION THE PRIVATE SECURITY

- This book is hilarious! But it is also very helpful. I learned a lot of new tactics and approach. Women have a lot of power and when used properly we can get what we want from a man.
- Started dating a nice woman a while back. She really had my interest. Things were great, we were going slow, but we were definitely headed in a positive direction. Then things started to change. She started getting standoffish. Sending mixed signals. All of a sudden her comments when we first started going out about wanting a relationship in life turned into "taking my time and having fun with my life" and "don't want to make a commitment". This was not the woman I had met months ago. Why the change? She was still contacting me and interested, but there was a marked change in her personality. During one of our evenings, and after a couple drinks, she had mentioned that a friend gave her this book after her last broken relationship with a player who'd been cheating on her with 3 other women. Remembering this, I went out and bought the book to see if it could explain her unusual behavior. Well, she's been following the book as though it were a script. I took the book I bought, and highlighted everything in it that she had pulled on me. I met her for a drink and asked why she was acting so strangely different from when we first met. I got another line from the book. I took the book out of my coat, tossed it on the table. By the look on her face, you'd have sworn I took the book out and smacked her on top of the head with it. She was completely shocked, and the look on her face was nothing short of horror. She had not even remembered mentioning the book to me. All of a sudden all of these stupid little games she had learned in this book to put me on tilt, had her on full tilt. She started to cry. She'd "been hurt" before, and didn't want it to happen again. I told her the only type of guy she was going to get by reading the man bashing and demeaning b.s. in this book was the type she was trying to avoid. By this point she had me so conflicted and disoriented, I was simply not having a good time with her anymore. The fun thoughts of her during our time apart during that first month or so had turned to confusion and frustration in her absence the last couple months. None of that was building attraction or affection towards her for me. I have not returned her calls or texts since that night. Yes, she had "the power" for a while there, but once the game was up, it was up, and the confusion and conflict I felt turned to anger. The smart, funny, attractive woman I had met had turned into an unintelligent, pathetic, manipulative, undesirable woman in my eyes. She blew it with exactly the type of guy she professed to want by reading and following this garbage. Follow a majority of the advice in this book ladies, and you'll wind up the bitter 50 year old "cat woman", living alone, and wondering why you were never able to snag a good thing, and is attractive to a real man. Manipulation and being someone you're not is completely unattractive.
