REVIEW OF CREATING SHAREHOLDER VALUE A GUIDE FOR MANAGERS AND INVESTORS

- Schools in the book represent the spectrum of higher education in the United States, from large to small, Ivy League and liberal arts to state university to predominantly African-American. You'll find for each school selected : the school's number of African-American students, faculty and administrators; scholarship and other aid programs for minorities; admission requirements, particularly standardized test scores; and provisions for remedial training and the availability of counseling and tutoring services.

- Isn't the playing field the same for every one? Author Christopher Howard is a leading authority in personal influence and effectiveness; in this book he helps us to understand the rules to break the boundaries to achieve wealth and power. Wake up! Choose your Game and Play to Win. This book is very interesting, gives so much information about literally how to turn what you love into making money. If you are not happy where you are probably is a matter of, passion. "Turning Passions into Profits provides specific techniques for rapidly closing the gap between where you are today and where you'd like to be tomorrow. The ideas are really great; "Christopher clearly shows that those who we see as wealthy powerful individuals are not all smart. Some are as smart as anyone walking down the street but they share similarities in thinking which brought them wealth."
