REVIEW OF MACROECONOMICS 4TH EDITION AUTHOR R GLENN HUBBARD

- The story is a bit drawn out, but it slowly pulled me in and propelled me forward. The tale of a conceited young man, plagued by a sense of futility and decay, alternating back and forth between two imperfect women reflects well a range of honest human emotions. The focus is definitely on the men though. The women in the story remain shallow and primarily serve sexual and reproductive roles. Not the best novel I've read, but I enjoyed it much more than Brazil (my first introduction to Updike's fiction) and plan to continue with the second book in the series.

- I am a fervent reader of the New Testament. I wanted to read the Koran too as I have heard so much on the news and internet about this "holy book". I bought an english translation. I read the first few Suras...then I skipped to the longer suras. I did not feel any sort of spiritual power whatsoever - NOTHING. I read Christ's words (The Sermon on the Mount, The Beatitudes, etc.) and then I read the Koran and I find that there is no comparison. Christ healed Lepers, gave sight to the blind, fed the multitudes, and blessed little children. What did Mohammed do? KILL! What did Christ do? Love and Heal.I find mohammad a very very poor substitute for the Loving Christ I read about every day...God Bless you all....
