REVIEW OF MATH PLACEMENT TEST STUDY GUIDE

- The book I am reviewing is The Giver by Lois Lowry. This book is about a boy named Jonus who lives in a community. I don't know where Jonus's community is because there is little description in the book. It could be anywhere. Jonus is a boy who is like an ordinary boy until he meets the Giver. But Jonus's community is very strange. They can't see color and at a certain age you get released. Some people in the community think releasing is a good thing. Also each family is only allowed to have a boy child and a girl child. Jonus can't understand things about his community but there's one who can. The Giver. The Giver is a wise old man who can see memories that others can't. But not all memories are good such as sunburn and breaking your leg. Jonus learns lots from the Giver and even receives some memories. Jonus becomes a whole new person because of the Giver. For example Jonus gets tougher and wiser than he was earlier in the book. In this book I don't think there is a time period. It could be in the future or the past. If you're looking for an adventure book and a thrilling book, pick The Giver. I like the whole book except the ending because I did not think the book should end that way. I learned that our world is a lot better than Jonus's community. Lois Lowry has also written Gathering Blue, and lots of other great stories. I think Lois Lowry likes writing adventure books and science fiction ones.

- After reading some of the other reviews I feel like I'm guilty of "piling on", but this latest effort of Griffin and his son, Butterworth, is a poor relation to other books by W. E. B Griffin. I have every novel written by Griffin on my library shelves having read and reread everyone of them. This latest extension of the "Men at War" series is a complete disappointment. It seems contrived, very weak, and incomplete as opposed to the page turners normally published by the author.
