REVIEW OF BY JAMES DASHNER WEEBLY

- This is an awesome Science Teacher resource book It can be used as a base to an Early Childhood Science curriculum It covers everything and in subcategories :Weather Experiments(includes the states of water and water cycle), Days, Months, seasons Experiments, Parts of the Body Experiments(includes the organs and their functions),Senses, Health and Hygiene Experiments, Living and Non living things experimentsThere are resource pages with each activity to tie in home connectionsMust hve book for your resource shelf. I own many resource books but this is the one I always turn to.

- I have used this book as a textbook in several of my colleges classes and have found it to be most enlightening in giving students a better understanding of family and social change. Highly recommended to better understand that it is not so much soicioeconomic factors but sibling rivalry that induces personal and social change.
