Anushka Dhar, a sixteen year-old, is a blossoming Mumbai-based writer who strives to engage in mindful, progressive conversations. From being an a-grade student at school to a fierce and competitive sportsman on the court, this youngun likes to don many avatars. In addition to her studies, sports, and writing, she is currently raising funds to rehabilitate and empower socially disadvantaged girls from one of Asia's most infamous red-light districts. Following in the footsteps of her father, Deepak Dhar, she aspires to join the film industry and leave her mark by continuing to tell stories such as this one about the Kashmiri Pandit exodus from the Valley. Placing that traumatic experience in context, she offers a panoramic view of the history of the region, emphasizing the injustice that continues to haunt the psyche of those who went into exile. Having left all worldly possessions behind, they struggled for years to find their feet and later spread all over the world to build new lives for themselves. NH44: take me home is their story, the title expressing the yearning and sentiment they all feel for their lost, but not forgotten, home.

The Four Humors Penguin Books India

Myths and legends jostle with the contemporary in these stories where social issues of our times resonate with the inevitability of the past. The lyricism of Carnatic ragas permeate the pages of this quiet and powerful book in which love is rendered in all its immeasurable avatars—parental, carnal, platonic, romantic, divine. There is the woman who reinvents the notion of love in a unique way that amalgamates technology and spirituality through the internet; a man full of love who can sing Bulleh Shah and the woman who has lost her all in the 1984 anti-Sikh riots; the woman in the title story who stands by her deaf daughter but understands why her husband must leave the home they have built with love all these years; the man who finds out what it is to be a woman after a dip in the pond... These short stories are shorn of sentimentality but have a deep understanding of what it means to live, to love and to die. CS Lakshmi, writing under the pseudonym Ambai, has been a significant voice in Indian literature for the past four decades. A Red-necked Green Bird is the writer's seventh collection of short stories.

REVIEW OF THE LEGEND OF LAKSHMI PRASAD

- Very detailed read, if you are looking for answers to the 45 year old questions you have, this will help. I recommend Hell In A Very Small Place and The Two Viet Nams, by Bernard Fall to round out your search.
- If you're a history buff, student of history, Basil Davidson is an excellent resource on the African Continent. I'm rarely disappointed. Warning - cover of our book was not the original - quite disconcerting as it had nothing to do with the subject! I still gave all stars because the content is exceptional.
