REVIEW OF CONCIERTO DE ARANJUEZ SHEET MUSIC

- This translation by Benjamin Jowett, a great translator of Plato's works, is the one you want to get if you are mostly concerned with beauty and elegance in a translation. There are other translations that are more accurate, but none more elegant and beautiful than Jowett. This translation was finished in the 19th century; it is the most famous of all Plato translations, although there are numerous other translations available today. (You will be able to find critics that love and hate each translator, so it is up to you to get the one that you think is most true and, if you are like me, most beautiful.) Here is a translation comparison of the same lines of a few different translations so you can see the difference:(From the "Apology")Tredennick:"Well, now it is time to be off, I to die and you to live; but which of us has the happier prospect is unknown to anyone but God."Jowett:"The hour of departure has arrived, and we go our ways--I to die, and you to live. Which is better God only knows."Rouse:"And now it is time to go, I to die, and you to live; but which of us goes to a better thing is unknown to all but God."Just so you know, the Jowett translation is a public domain text (finished in the late 19th century) that you can find on the internet if you don't want to buy it; but it only costs pennies, so go ahead and buy the book so you can make your notes in the margins...and also so you don't have to stare at a computer screen for hours.Some links to other versions that feature the Jowett translation:Euthyphro, Apology, Crito, Phaedo (Great Books in Philosophy)Six Great Dialogues: Apology, Crito, Phaedo, Phaedrus, Symposium, The Republic (Thrift Edition)It is generally agreed upon that the most accurate translation of Plato are the Grube translations. Here is a link:Plato Five Dialogues: Euthyphro, Apology, Crito, Meno, Phaedo

- The exercises in this book are divided into programs, and you can advance from one program to another. Each program is excellent for what it represents. You're told how long the exercises will take. Program One, for example, a Beginner program, takes about seventeen minutes. You don't need weights to do these exercises: you use your own body weight, pushing it off a desk or wall. You can do these in any room at home, or in a motel. If you want to lift weights, one of the programs is a weight-lifting one. These are excellent exercises. My book is so old that the binding is falling apart, so I've photocopied the pages I use most.
