REVIEW OF SEENAA GOOTOTA OROMOO

- especially for someone whose English is not a first language, it's not a cure for not having knowledge at any field but it definitely helps to score a few points up.

- There may literally be 100 errors and poor assumptions in this book. I'm lucky I caught them, but I already scored 91 on the practice ASVAB at the recruiter's office. I can't imagine how confusing or misleading it would be for someone who was not aware enough to catch the errors. And I wonder how many I missed. Here's a few off the top of my head that go something like this. To convert from square feet to square inches, multiply by 144... not 12. It's a little confusing when the right answer isn't even a choice on the practice test. If wool, iron, silver, and any other object are placed in boiling water, over time they will ALL reach the same temperature, regardless of conductivity. Now if a portion of the object is sticking out of the pot, that's a different story. If you touch a key, wool sweater, plastic spoon and, I don't know, lets say a leather belt... yes common sense says the key will FEEL the coldest because metal is the best conductor of heat... assuming that all the objects are below body temperature. What if they've been in the sun? I recommend trying a different ASVAB prep publication. I did.
