REVIEW OF MCDONALDS FDD FRANCHISE DISCLOSURE DOCUMENT

- The story of Anne continues with this work and the author stays true to her style, story line and character development. This, like the other books in this series, have a rather timeless nature about them and a comforting charm. The reader, of course, must remember the time they were written and the style and syntax used at that time. From my own point of view, this is great. I enjoy this type of writing and certainly enjoy Ms. Montgomery's story telling abilities. In this work, Anne goes off to Redman College and her adventure continues. Recommend these books for readers of all ages. Wish there were more works out there like it.

- As a person who is fond of Calvin, Turretin, Bavinck, Murray, Lloyd-Jones, C.S. Lewis, Schaeffer, Poythress, et. al, I found Kline is only one step to heresy. For example, "Let us make man in Our image, according to Our likeness..." (Gen.

1:26) Who are "us" here? Kline says "angels" (see also p.242 in The Genesis Debate, ISBN-13: 978-0970224507) This is directly against the next verse, Gen. 1:27, "So God created man in his own image, in the image of GOD he created him, male and female he created them." There are numerous other instances that Kline shows his tendency to New Age instead of Biblical, Christian, and Reformed Thoughts. Kline is wordy and equivocating. His arguments are circular, tricky, and frequently self-contradictory. Although this book is filled with "orthodox" terminologies, its incoherence reduces his arguments to worthless words. If you want to empty your church, read Kline!
