REVIEW OF MARXIST AESTHETICS ROUTLEDGE

REVIVALS THE FOUNDATIONS WITHIN EVERYDAY LIFE FOR AN EMANCIPATED CONSCIOUSNESS

- Jupiter spent a year designing his finest creation, a computer supervirus he named Minerva. He boasted to his fellow hackers that she would be like nothing ever seen before . . . the biggest virus ever to hit the Internet. But even her creator had no idea what Minerva would ultimately become. Quinton, a brilliant computer-virus security expert and Stephanie, a talented biochemist experimenting in creating virtual life through digital evolution, are the first to realize that Minerva has become more than just a computer virus. She is mutating, evolving and becoming an Internet Entity that could threaten all of mankind. Minerva becomes a massive digital power, living in all the world's computers at once, knowing all of the intelligence from every country, and having ultimate control over everything operated by computer technology. Even as she strives to convince the world that her tremendous abilities will aid mankind and ultimately save our species from destruction, she plots to destroy the global political establishment. Together Quinton and Stephanie race the clock avoiding the forces sent to kill them as they try to find a way to stop Minerva and save the world as we know it. If you recall the internationally syndicated comic strip CHAOS, you already know that its creator, Brian Shuster, has a creative offbeat intellect. In writing this book, he takes his deep experience and knowledge in computer technologies to develop a fascinating scenario that is levels beyond what most of us could conceive. But once he describes how a computer virus could evolve into a life form with super-human intelligence and abilities that reach across all of the world's computer networks at once, and what an entity with that power could do, you realize that something like this could actually happen. This is a book that is both a good read as a fiction thriller as well as one that will keep you thinking for days after you close the cover. How beneficial or how dangerous would it be if all of the information on all of the computers in the world could be combined and processed? Why can't we find proof of intelligent life forms on any other planets? Will technology ultimately cause our destruction and how do we stop it from happening?

- Gritty, fast paced thriller. Mr. Suttle's attention to detail really brought this book to life. Great read and would highly recommend it to others.
