REVIEW OF LIFESPAN DEVELOPMENT 6TH EDITION FREE

- I rarely write a review, but I also rarely encounter a book with such magnitude and power. This is a great read and a quick page turner. The plot, which is a simple one, involves Jonas, a young eleven year old boy trying to find out what he will become when he grows up (that choice is never allowed in the community that demands total control). He is chosen to be a receiver and there is when the book becomes an utter page turner. So what is this book about? Its theme is choice and the consequences that we all face when making them. Do we want a world that is without choice, but is completely safe, or do we risk choice and the potential negative consequences. Clearly the ending offers a solution albeit it is a dark and poignant one and forces us to evaluate those ideas. That's what great literature is about. You are not slammed in the face with a neat solution but instead offered an ambiguous ending that asks the questions that need to be asked. Clearly the book offers dark themes that many parents don't want their children exposed to, but are they better with Grand Theft Auto, media bombardment, and R rated horror films? This book actually demands that you question and think about situations that will affect everyone in life. This is an extremely important piece of writing. Well done.

- "The Giver" is a novel which deals with the problems boy named Jonas who lives in a totalitarian system. In this system, the habitants are genetically manipulated so that they are not able to feel. Only the "Receiver of Memories" has feelings and Jonas is chosen to be the next one. In his assignment he is able to get to know the whole truth about their society which reveals enormous cruelties. The author employs the third- person-point of view but she stays close to the protagonist's perspective, so that the reader is able to identify with Jonas. The novel is easy to read and to understand because she often uses hypotaxes. In regard to the content and the action, the text is diaphanous and the characters do not have uncommon personalities. I think, the novel is appreciated for younger people from about 10 to 14 years because the plot is often flat and ordinary. So in my opinion, the text does not belong to high-quality literature.
