REVIEW OF EN 13155 PDF CITRADEORE

- L'Amour, one of the great American West Storytellers of our time, did a good job with this story about a down-and-out drifter and a recent widow, both trying to survive in a harsh world. He went the extra mile by adding the part about Evie writing her thoughts on scraps of paper and attaching them to tumbleweeds. Half the cowhands in the area are chasing tumbleweeds, dreaming of the lonely woman who must be writing them. I have nearly every book L'Amour ever wrote and this is one of my favorites.

- Thinking With Your Soul: Spiritual Intelligence and Why It Matters is a masterful blend of science, clinical experience and spirituality. Tackling the difficult, and controversial problem of spirituality, Wolman makes a convincing case for the existence of a new intelligence inherent in the human condition. I approached this book skeptically, but was soon engaged in the range of topics and fields examined and synthesized. From evolutionary psychology, philosophy, and cognitive neuroscience, Wolman makes accessible the most difficult and complex of issues. He then shows how his new methodology for studying spirituality evolved, not from his preconceptions, but from the minds and hearts of thousands of individuals. This new procedure has wide applications in daily life and also in the consulting room. The book is written in elegant prose - almost poetic at times - and reveals the compassion and sensitivity Wolman shows to his patients, his students and his important book. You colleagues. This is an will read it more than one time.
