He was the best thing that ever happened to him...in the worst way. West Balkany lived his life by one rule: make your own luck. And that means fighting his slum lord when his building starts falling apart, forcing himself to finish school no matter how much he wants to quit, and most importantly, never do something as stupid as falling in love. Unfortunately, that last part isn't so easy when his gorgeous one-night-stand who dragged him into a bar supply closet and made him see god, keeps turning up everywhere he goes. But he doesn't have time for Jake-no matter how much he wants to. His father's health is failing, his deli is barely getting by, and now he's facing a massive legal suit against Larsen Property Management for trying to kick everyone out into the streets. He also knows that Jake is hiding something, and he's pretty sure whatever it is, it's enough to turn his life upside down. But Jake also makes him want to try, and that's what scares him the most. Jakob Larsen spent his life running from the man his father always wanted him to be, but that all comes to a stop when the man announced he was leaving LPM. He finally has a chance to prove to both his brother and to St. James that he can turn Larsen Property Management around and do something good for the people his father has been tormenting all these years. The problem is, he's just not quite sure how, when no one trusts him to do the right thing. And it doesn't help that Jakob has found himself distracted, falling for a gorgeous, stoic deli owner who has no idea who he really is. All Jakob has ever wanted was to be truly loved, but now that he's found the one person he could see himself growing old with, he has to face the truth: everything they have is based on a lie. All You Touch is the second book in the low-angst, humorous, steamy series, Love Starts Here. It contains no cheating, and a happily ever after.

During the 70 years of the Soviet era leaders created one of the most rigidly controlled societies in history. Their objective was to mold citizens into docile conformists and devoted servants of the State. As an antidote to our personal freedoms they conditioned their citizens to distrust all foreigners since their goal was, by definition, to undermine Soviet power. An unrelenting propaganda assault glorified the virtues of their system and reinforced hostility toward any outside entity. The governing bureaucracy appeared monolithic but was actually extremely vulnerable. The system itself was defective; unwittingly it motivated individuals to bypass the strict application of the law and discover other techniques of coping. Russians exhibited a boundless creativity in circumventing regulations. Their deliverance lay in mastering a very inventive, humorous and witty approach to an existence that was otherwise grim beyond description. Russia is an endlessly fascinating land, unexpected and unpredictable, producing delight as well as despair. It consists of humane and warm-hearted people oppressed by endless years of a stultifying bureaucracy. But given the opportunity basic humanity would peek through the bureaucratic facade and manifest itself in ways sometimes benevolent, or humorous, or compassionate, but always endearing. The present review summarizes a number of adventures and experiences that personify these traits.

Why does reality still pique our curiosity? Why have we yet to find ourselves 200,000 years later? What is the fate of reality? It All Starts With YOU

This book is the first of a series that considers the many aspects of reality. I call it 'It all starts from within' because reality starts with each of us individually and independently. It starts from our inner self before evolving into what I would call the collective reality, meaning a generally agreed upon state in which groups of people, entire nations, or the whole world believe. That reality includes beliefs, cultures, ideologies, etc. As we change and adapt to our environment, our reality changes as well. New realities emerge... Chapter one is about perception and our senses. It demonstrates how perception is impossible without our senses. Whatever angle of reality that's being analyzed, one or more of our senses plays a momentous role in its understanding... Chapter two considers the role of the brain in the making of reality. It delves into how the brain can make the mind behave a certain way under certain circumstances... Chapter three looks at the mind, which I call the ultimate maker of reality. This chapter describes the mind as that intangible component of the brain and where reality or all realities stem from after, of course, being picked up by the senses and the brain... Chapter four attempts to define reality itself after it's perceived by our senses, analyzed by our brain, and processed by our mind...I consider five questions in my attempt to answer the question: what is reality? They are: what are things and why do they look different from one another? What is life and its origins? What is death? What is superstition? What is space and are we alone in the universe?

The Life Story of Peter Mercanti and His Ingredients for Business Success, Leadership and Happiness Mindpop

The inspiring, life-changing bestseller by the author of LEADERS EAT LAST and TOGETHER IS BETTER. In 2009, Simon Sinek started a movement to help people become more inspired at work, and in turn inspire their colleagues and customers. Since then, millions have been touched by the power of his ideas, including more than 28 million who’ve watched his TED Talk based on START WITH WHY -- the third most popular TED video of all time. Sinek starts with a fundamental question: Why are some people and organizations more innovative, more influential, and more profitable than others? Why do some command greater loyalty from customers and employees alike? Even among the successful, why are so few able to repeat their success over and over? People like Martin Luther King Jr., Steve Jobs, and the Wright Brothers had little in common, but they all started with WHY. They realized that people won't truly buy into a product, service, movement, or idea until they understand the WHY behind it. START WITH WHY shows that the leaders who've had the greatest influence in the world all think, act, and communicate the same way -- and it's the opposite of what everyone else does. Sinek calls this powerful idea The Golden Circle, and it provides a framework upon which organizations can be built, movements can be led, and people can be inspired. And it all starts with WHY.

Stoney McGurrian in his debut book, brings us on the adventure of his life time. Having spent months in hospital as a four year old, where he almost lost his arm; only to have it saved by a famous French surgeon Dr. Chance, he left Leitrim as a teenager on ship across the Atlantic to New York City. The stories are exciting, sad, happy and true; from 1941 to the present, from pencil to paper. "Very informative as far as history of Irish people making it in New York City. Great to learn of how civil rights has made us better people. His traveling south, taught me to appreciate what I have today." Ann Hernandez, New York, USA "A great read, the author captures glimpses of life of bygone eras, all the while never short of good characters and incredible situations. I really enjoyed the book." Kieran Moran, The Bronx, New York, USA "A roller coaster read. Should be on the curriculum in high schools. This book would be banned in Ireland in the 1960s. The author would be in the good company of Oscar Wilde, Salman Rushdie and Brendan Behan." Michael D. McAndrew, Journalist Midwest Radio, Mayo, Ireland "My wife and I read it in bed. We laughed, we cried; insights into sex, drugs, crime, hard work, history and politics. We did not sleep the night we read it. We waited a long time for a book like this, well done to Stoney and John for this production." Pat and Phil Burke, Co. Tipperary, Ireland "Entertaining, educational, enlightening, ecstatic, erotic and enjoyable!" Lizzy Tabor, Massachusetts, USA "I've known Stoney for over 40 years - and over that time he has regaled me with his stories and memories many times. It's great to see them documented on the printed page - captured in time. Stories that take us from Dowra, Co Leitrim across to the United States - stories of innocence and ignorance, of hurt and healing, of grit, determination and success - told in Stoney's inimitable voice." REVIEW OF IT ALL STARTED WITH AN APPLE KINDLE EDITION ASHLEY WINTERS

- This account of Egypt and the Nile is wonderfully descriptive and in-depth. It also tells the story of a time in Egypt when tourism on the Nile was something new and unscripted. I recommend it to anyone interested in the recent history of Egypt.

- The problem with most financial books is they are basically unrealistic. They tell you to save, save, save and invest your money and in 30 to 40 years you'll be a millionaire. Don't get me wrong. I think this system will work for those individuals who can do it. But how many people in the real world can do it? (Especially if they are a family raising kids and making less than $50,000 a year, and that describes the average family!) What I love about Michael Masterson's book is he tells the average person that if you truly want to be financially rich, the first thing you're going to have to do is raise your income, and then he shows the reader actual, specific steps to do just that! By increasing your income and creating little side businesses that generate income streams, the goal is to get the reader to $150k a year and beyond. And he shows you how to do it! Then once a person is making that kind of money they can start investing it. Michael shows you the best way to do that as well. Folks, being in sales and marketing myself, I know what Michael is talking about works. It truly is a book that can take you from broke to financial independence within 7 to 15 years, maybe sooner. And along the way you'll start making a nice juicy income and enjoying life. Of course you could go back to doing what those other financial gurus tell you to do--invest and wait thirty to forty years to get your reward! Congratulations! You're the richest person in the cemetery!
