REVIEW OF STRUCTURAL BEARINGS

- Steinbeck recreated the 1930's migrant worker and the area around them very well. He gives detail to what the men wear and how the cloths are formed. He give you a kind of feel to what it felt like back then. Like when Lennie and George first enter the ranch he tell you what it smells like and when theres a hot day he tells you how humid it is and. Steinbeck makes the characters very well. He creates the classic duo of the short smart guy and the big dumb one. He gives the characters meaning, every character has at least one thing that makes them unique by cedar

- I had to read this book for school, so at first I didn't appreciate it. Now, after I finished it, I think it is a great book. I recommend this book to others.
