REVIEW OF MCGRAW HILL MEDICAL ASSISTANT WORKBOOK ANSWERS 5E

- "Oranges on Golden Mountain" is an excellent children's book. The text by Elizabeth Partridge is complemented by Aki Sogabe's colorful illustrations. "Oranges" tells the story of Jo Lee, a Chinese boy who emigrates to California, where he works as a fisherman with his uncle. He misses his mother, who is still in China, but he plants orange branches that she gave him to take on his journey. This is a realistic immigrant story with some fantastic/supernatural touches that evoke traditional Chinese beliefs. Illustrator Aki Sogabe creates many memorable scenes: a letter writer engaged in Chinese calligraphy, the Dragon King flying over a stormy ocean, Jo Lee tending his orange saplings, and more. To sum up: this is an excellent book for children of all cultures.

- But where is there an informative explanation of the story behind each stamp? The stories would be very educational for every collector about American history and culture. Each stamp is an honor to its pictured subject---a story made more easy to visualize, remember and study as deeply as one's curiosity selects.
