REVIEW OF THE PERIODIC LAW CHAPTER 5

- This book is about a boy named Jonas, who is chosen out of a group of kids to take on a role of the reciever. This book takes place in the future when climate is controlled and colors are no more, all of this to make living easier. So no one can make their own decisions or have their own ideas. Everytime a child is born their life is already assigned to them, their job and also their mate. The people are just born into this with no recalection of how the world really works. A guy who used to be called the reciever is now called the Giver. He teaches Jonas about colors and winter and everything before it was all controlled, and he cannot share this with anyone. I liked this book. I would recommend it to anyone who likes books that are about what the future might be like.

- Have you ever wondered what it'd be like to live in a perfect society? In The Giver by Lois Lowry, Jonas lives in the future in a perfect world without pain or grief. When he turns twelve, he is chosen as The Receiver, who obtains all the memories of the world's past from The Giver. The main characters are Jonas (The Receiver) and The Giver who gives Jonas the world's memories. Jonas changes from a naive child who knows nothing about life to an opinionated, emotional young adult who witnesses the society's citizens' inability to know, to feel, to think, to judge and to make their own decisions. I enjoyed this book tremendously. It shows the tragedy of an emotionless person living in a so-called perfect world. "They can't help it. They know nothing." (Page 153) These ignorant citizens don't know right from wrong and simply act at other's order. I recommend this book to people of all ages, though it is best suited for kids of 4th grade and higher who possess high-level vocabulary and comprehension skills. Get ready to step in Jonas's shoes in this science fiction masterpiece that emphasizes humans' capability to decide for rights and our ourselves.
