REVIEW OF CAMBRIDGE IGCSE ENGLISH WORKBOOK THIRD EDITION

- "Of Mice and Men" is a great novel, written by John Steinbeck. It deals with really interesting subjects such as dreams, loneliness, authority and violence. I believe these are the main themes the book has, these are the things that the author wants us, the readers, to find out. George and Lennie, the main characters, are itinerant workers, they both share a dream. This dream is the most important thing they have, it gives them the hope that things in a future would change, that they would have a house "An'live off the fatta the lan". These two characters are very different, George is "small and qick" instead Lennie is a huge guy, mentally retarded. Although all the differences they have, they travel together and share lots of important things. Every character in the novel is lonely, and I believe this is one of the things that had more impact on me. The fact that no character had any real friend, nor a family, no one to talk with, no one to hear you. I think that this is why, some parts of this novel are really sad. "Guys like us, that work on ranches, are the loneliest guys in the world, They got no family. They don't belong no place" This is said by one of the main characters, George. I believe this book, is one of the best books I have ever read, this is because every subject involved in the novel is really interesting and has lots to do with life nowadays.

- I thought this book was pretty dumb. It had no point. It is a waste of money. It is vulgar. I don't like it.
