REVIEW OF SIEMENS MANUAL TRANSFER SWITCH

- I think that Lois Lowry's "The Giver" should be read by everyone. She describes the new world exactly and you can imagine everything. You get many information about Jonas, the main character of this book, and his life in that community, his problems etc. I dislike the beginning of this book, because it is boring but don't give up. Later it becomes more and more exciting and you can't stop reading, until you reach the last page. This book is written in an easy language and because of this it is easy to understand, even for younger people. It was a great experience to read this book.

- Newberry Awards are most useful for telling a reader which books to avoid. This is an example of a 'book' that wins an award for appealing to literary intelligentsia rather than because it's a 'good read'. There's no sense of wonder, no sense of adventure, but everything is very PC. Go buy "White Fang" or "The Yearling". Read something by Mercedes Lackey, R. A. Heinlein, H. Beam Piper or David Weber. But for goodness sake, please don't buy this book on the same principle of not feeding stray cats. It only encourages them to stick around and reproduce.
